Is your partner or spouse cheating on you?

One of the most frequently asked questions of a private investigator is 'can you find out if my girlfriend / wife / boyfriend / husband / partner / spouse is cheating on me'. Many people in long term and settled relationships can find themselves in circumstances where they feel, for whatever reason, that their partner may be cheating on them.

Probably the worst part of this situation is simply not knowing, and that's where we help. Luckily, many of the cases we are asked to investigate simply result in a report for the client which says that their partner is entirely faithful. In some cases we've found that their behavior change is because they are planning a surprise for their partner!

Unfortunately this is not always true.

Cheating partner

At Insight Investigations our private investigators work hard to maintain 100% confidentiality in order to either set your mind at ease or collate substantial evidence to address the problem.

Often suspicions are aroused due to behavioral changes in a partner and it is unclear whether these changes are as innocent as they may claim. You may be certain that your partner is unfaithful or keeping secrets from you and it is simply a matter of proving this. Only by having the facts and proof of their actions will you be able to resolve your concerns and if necessary confront the problem.

Potential signs of infidelity

- > They have become distant/ ignore you or become defensive when confronted
- > Distinct changes in mobile phone usage
- > They won't answer their phone around you or often if you call them, their phone is switched off
- > They work late more often than usual
- > They are very protective over computer history and their computer usage habit changes
- > Spending more time away from home
- > Their clothes have distinctive smells of perfume, aftershave, alcohol or smoke
- > They are not as interested in sex

These are just a few signs which may be reasons for you to suspect that your partner is being unfaithful.

Clearly some or all of these behavioral changes may be nothing more than pressure of work, financial problems or your partner taking an interest in their own appearance and looking to improve their lives with you, rather than without you, however when two or more of these signs are present it can often be that they are attracted to someone other than you. Catching your partner cheating is often quite difficult, particularly if you have a family as finding the time or resources to follow them without being seen is almost impossible.

Modern Communication

The onset of Facebook, friends re-united, easily setup email account and mobile phones, now give endless opportunity. A sure sign of cheating is passwords being changed, mobile phones being hidden or even pin code protected and messages or internet history being deleted.

At Insight we have over 35 years' experience in handling matrimonial investigations and understand completely not only how distressing this could be for you but also how we need to handle this sensitive situation. Co-Habitation Evidence

When you separate or divorce from your partner and you have young children, either party has a responsibility to help with financial maintenance for the main carer who has custody of the children. However, if your ex-wife/husband meets a new spouse and they decide to live together, maintenance payments are affected and decreased due to increased financial circumstances.

Many, in such circumstances, instruct private detectives to prove if their ex-partner is co-habiting with a new spouse to ensure that they are not paying more money than they are legally required to do so. Insight can carry out co-habitation investigations to provide you with firm evidence if your ex-partner is co-habiting or not, so that your mind is at rest over financial matters. Such reports will be presented in accepted formats for all Courts and the Child Support Agency, or its successors.

Co-Habitation investigations can also assist with sensitive custody matters and background enquiries can assist with Ex-partner's dating new people and children's exposure to those Individuals so please explain your circumstances fully to us.

Pre-nuptial Investigations

If you consider it vital that you know everything there is to know about your soon to be husband or wife, hiring a private investigator to carry out pre-nuptial investigations can help to ease any worries you may have about your partner. It can also prove if there is anything untoward in their lifestyle before you get married. Such enquiries are extremely discreet and remain confidential.

Such enquiries are not limited to the UK. We can carry out background checks on your partner to help you get your married life get off to its best start. Why risk losing your possible inheritance, lifestyle or ultimately happiness due to a potential spouse not being as genuine as you thought. Insight will carry out your pre-nuptial investigations discreetly and professionally to ensure accurate reports can be presented to you.

Matrimonial Vehicle Tracking

It's a sad fact that one of the most frequent questions we're asked as private investigators is whether somebody's spouse or partner is being unfaithful or committing adultery. Such questions usually arise following a shift in behavior; however you need proof before confronting them.

At Insight Investigations, we have a team of highly trained and experienced private detectives with the skills to find out the facts behind this change of behavior, to either put your mind at rest or confirm your worst suspicions.

One of the methods we use to investigate such cases is matrimonial vehicle tracking.

What is Matrimonial Vehicle Tracking?

Our matrimonial vehicle tracking services can be used to track any vehicle in the UK or overseas.

A GPS vehicle tracker is a small device that can be fitted to a vehicle discretely, allowing the movements of that vehicle to be tracked at all times. The device can detect the precise location of the vehicle at any time, including details of any stops and the length of time spent at each location.

The data can be tracked in real time so you know where the vehicle is at all times, and the sophisticated systems we use mean we can provide you with a report for any day or time, as necessary.

Matrimonial Vehicle Tracking Services

Our private detectives will install and remove GPS vehicle trackers discretely, and will present the information to you in a clear, concise report.

A GPS tracking system is an invaluable aid to a surveillance operation and a less intrusive method of tracking an individual's movements. It also reduces the chances of an investigation being compromised by an individual suspecting they are being followed, and can significantly reduce the costs.

If the results of the vehicle surveillance arouses your suspicions further, you may then wish to hire us to carry out physical surveillance to capture the proof – such as photographic evidence – that you need to confront your partner or spouse.

If you have concerns about the behavior of your partner or spouse, contact Insight Investigations today.

Why Us

You have sought the advice of a Private Investigation Firm, because you have a problem that needs resolving or information that you need to acquire to enable you to make an informed decision. Your choice of Investigator should be made, as with any other professional, with care.

If you arrived at our website from an internet search, Insight Investigations www.investigate.uk will probably not be the only Private Investigation Company that you speak with.

We are not all the same in terms of quality, tenacity and professionalism of services.

What then makes Insight different from the rest, and why should you entrust us with your investigation?

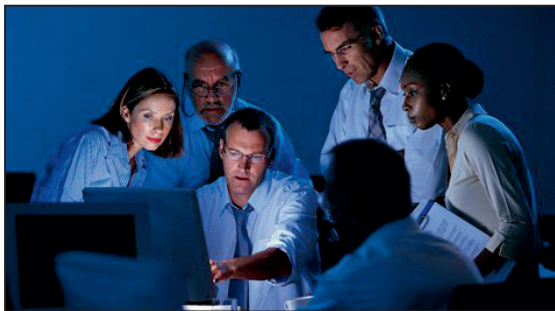

Why we are different

We are an established Private Investigation and Detective Agency with over 35 years trading experience within the field of Private and Commercial investigations.

In modern investigations there is no substitute for experience. Combining this with the latest technology available in the investigation industry, a perceptive understanding of human nature, together with a truthful understanding of current laws, Insight provide you with one of the best services available in the UK investigation Industry.

Insight Investigations are dedicated to providing their clients with a level of service that aims to continue to promote the advancing profile of the UK Investigation Industry. This statement was made by Insight in 1991 and is still true today.

The world moves on, quality remains

Our multi-disciplined team are all trained and experienced in either Private Investigation or support skills.

Insights Directors' and Investigative staff have over 250 years full time combined experience within the field of Private Investigation. With the assistance of modern technology and good 'old fashioned' detective skills we find solutions to problems daily.

With no governing body at present that regulates the private investigation industry, you need some re-assurance that the investigation agency you choose conforms to a strict code of ethics. Insight is a Corporate Member of The World Association of Professional Investigators that operates a strict code of ethics.

A prestigious W.A.P.I Industry Award, named after Insights' founder, is presented each year to the "The UK Investigator of the Year", an Investigator who has contributed to the profession with expertise and acclaim in that year.

Insight are often asked to comment in both the press and media, we have made appearances on National and Local Radio and Television, and have been asked to contribute to several newspaper articles. Insight's Director of Operations was asked to give opinion at The Levinson enquiry, as to his knowledge on the current state of the UK private investigation industry.

Insight's in house support staff are trained Legal secretaries and/or business graduates who can report your case ready for Court proceedings in the required format.

Insight will continue to align with, and actively support, those petitioning the UK Government to regulate this Industry in a proper manner. Responsible Investigators in the UK, and elsewhere, have suffered from the presence of investigators that are unprofessional and unethical.

Our telephone consultations are free of charge and whatever you discuss with us remains confidential, so you have nothing to lose in contacting Insight.
